The book was found

The Black Feminist Reader
Synopsis

Book Information
Paperback: 320 pages
Publisher: Wiley-Blackwell; 1 edition (June 8, 2000)
Language: English
ISBN-10: 0631210075
Product Dimensions: 6.1 x 1 x 9 inches
Shipping Weight: 1.2 pounds (View shipping rates and policies)
Average Customer Review: 5.0 out of 5 stars (See all reviews (2 customer reviews)
Best Sellers Rank: #713,069 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #131 in Books > Literature & Fiction > History & Criticism > Movements & Periods > Feminist #302 in Books > Literature & Fiction > History & Criticism > Regional & Cultural > United States > African American #375 in Books > Textbooks > Humanities > Literature > Literary Theory

Customer Reviews
I poured through this book the first time as all kind of triggers were being rang inside me. The understanding I now have as a result of reading this book empowered me. Then I read it again and experienced a deep foreboding then another enlightenment. I realize that had I not been able to read at the level I can, this book would be collecting dust, or a gift. The message inside is so important for women of color, it should translated for the women most affected by the injustices described.

Joy James is Visiting Professor/John B. and John T. McCoy Presidential Professor of the Humanities and College Professor in Political Science at Williams College. Tracy Denean Sharpley-Whiting is a feminist scholar and Distinguished Professor of French in the Department of French and Italian at the Vanderbilt University College of Arts and Science. They state in the Preface to this 2000 collection, "in our estimation the following essays best reflect the literary, social, and political critiques that mark this area of feminism as singular, controversial, and transformative. The ten essays reprinted here were written during the last twenty-five years by intellectuals who address key themes within black feminisms: the intersections of sex, gender, and race, sometimes class and Download to continue reading...